Reference architectures are documented best practices that help solutions delivery teams make effective design and technology choices. The purpose of a reference architecture is to increase standards adoption, speed time to market, and advance toward the target state architecture. This reference architecture toolkit includes all core deliverables needed to successfully implement a reference architecture.